It was very helpful to hear how other institutions manage patients. Knowing what treatment options are available is easy to find online and in guidelines, but the practical information on how to set patients up, what doses to be careful of, what toxicities to expect, is very helpful and cannot be found in guidelines.

Case-based discussions and review of data, treatment options, anatomy, dosimetry were particularly helpful.

Well-organized, seamless meeting addressing most of the current issues faced in my practice, helped to confirm what we are doing in many cases and see where some small adjustments might be considered, including considering some less standard approaches like APBI more often. The presenters didn't hesitate to challenge conventional wisdom, and answers to questions were clear and to the point.
